Miner: Governor Leslie has appointed Board of Arbitrators, vice R. M. Eddy, of Missoula, who declined the appointment appointed postmaster at that place last some time ago. The board was established last legislature to provide for arbitration of difficulties between labor and capital. It consists of three members, one representing labor, another capital and the other impartial. V. T. Kirtley, of Helena, represents labor, Dr. Mussigbrod represents capital, and W. J. Penrose, of the Mining Journal, is the impartial member. The board will meet at Helena in a few days to organize and formulate laws for its government. W. B. Webb, territorial secretary, is also secretary of the Board of Arbitration, and W. J. Penrose is chairman.

A Terrible Tramp. Butte Miner: Mrs. Annie Hately and her little daughter arrived from Utah a few days ago, having traveled on foot nearly all the way from their home in Coalville. Their feet were covered with ification of the agreement made between blisters, and they were in a totally desthe Northwestern Indian commission and titute condition. The object of Mrs. these Indians for a reduction of their res- Hately's arduous journey was to search for her little boy who disappeared from home two years ago, when he was but six years old. He, with his mother and sisters, were variety dancers, and as the he was coaxed away, or abducted by a ered dangerous. The shooting resulted variety troupe traveling through Utah at that time. Hearing that Butte was a great center of attraction for performers of that class, she thought it possible that her boy might be found here, and on brought to the city last evening and taken through untold hardships. After satisto the Sisters' hospital. His injuries are fying herself from close investigation that her lost boy was not at any place of amusement in Butte, Mrs. Hately applied at the sheriff's office for relief for herself and daughter. Deputy Sheriff Reynolds found them accommodations for the first night, and then they were given a comfortable room in the jail, flames, but the outfit of buggies, hearse, and their wants administered to by the grain, etc., was destroyed. The barn be- kind-bearted officials. Yesterday mornlonged to Ross Deegan, of Helena, and ing they started homeward, having been provided with a ticket by the county commissioners. The poor woman announced her intention of continuing the search, and the chances are that she will carry her aching heart and blistered feet into every important camp in the mountains, until she finds the boy, or gives up

A Terrific Explosion.

A disastrous and fatal explosion occurred at the Montana Central railway tunnel near Wickes on Saturday afternoon last. The powder house, which contained about 250 pounds of giant powder, blew up, killing two men, Thomas Burke and John Delaney. Burke, who was engaged in thawing powder near the mouth of the tunnel and considerable distance from the large magazine, was blown to atoms. Delaney, who was standing within fifty feet of the house at the time, had his head blown off. No other persons were injured. Not a vestige of the powder house was left. The explosion shattered the engine house, but Burke was about 26 years of age and Dclaney was only a lad of 18. The latter was the son of Mr. Delaney, who was foreman at the Mullan tunnel. His remains were taken to Helena for interment.
